Sewage Plan Of Santa Rosa Is Favored By City Trustees

Fire Menaces Old Mission Block Last Saturday Evening

MEETING HELD TO DISCUSS SUBSTITUTE PLAN FOR SEWER

Local Board Visits Neighboring City And Believes Sewer Farm Improvements Can Be Applied Here.

As a result of a visit to Santa Rosa last Sunday and official inspection of the recently improved sewer farm of that city, the Sonoma Board of Trustees have practically decided to try out the plan here, instead of proceeding to call the $30,000 bond election for a tide water continuation of the present system as contemplated. The substitute plan will entail expense of approximately $1000 and the trustees are in favor of giving it a fair trial. Mo t of the Board, who were shown over the Santa Rosa farm by Messrs Simpson and Halgren express themselves as well pleased with the outlook and so expressed themselves at a special meeting of the city council last night. Trustee Lindley says—Sonoma City has a better septic tank to start with and with the extra tank and the ground kept up like Santa Rosa, I believe the plan will be successful here. $1000 is better to expend than the larger sum if the improvement to the present plant can be carried through satisfactorily.

Trustee Dobbel declares he is in favor of trying the Santa Rosa plan and declares it looks like a good proposition and will meet with the favor

WILL MANAUFACTURE EGG TURNING DEVICE

The Pride of Petaluma Brooder Stove Company has secured the exclusive manufacturing rights of the Kitchen egg turning device, which is in use in Petaluma among the largest hatcheries, and is meeting with great success. This device was formerly manufactured in Sonoma, and later the concern was moved to Petaluma. Many firms have been negotiating for the manufacturing rights, but the Pride of Petaluma has been the successful bidder and is now manufacturing the device in large quantities.

F. S. Conners and son, Thomas, have left for the Puyallup fair in Washington, where they will demonstrate the device in conjunction with their exhibit of brooder stoves and other poultry appliances.

The incubator patents of the clever inventors, the Kitchen brothers, are held by a Sonoma company, and great effort was made to establish an incubator factory here. As the necessary capital was not subscribed the promoters evidently decided to sell the manufacturing rights on a royalty basis. Petaluma, quick to appreciate the opportunity, has won out.

The automatic turning devicee is just one feature of the Kitchen incubator which is acknowledged to be one of the greatest inventions in the poultry industry and one which bids fair to completely revolutionize the hatching of baby chicks. The market for incubators is a wide and steady one and had the factory been built in Sonoma and manufacturing done here, it would have been a great boom to the community.

This Omen Is Shrouded In Mystery

Woodchopper Kent, who staged a comeback last week in a boxing contest, was feeling fit as a fiddle this week and willing to tackle anything when suddenly one day he went all to pieces. It happened on the road to Sonoma—this sudden change of heart that transformed a chesty, prize fighting woodchopper into a trembling, superstitious being. But who wouldn't be superstitious under the circumstances. Kent found a parcel on the highway and naturally was delighted with his find until he examined the contents. One look and his hair stood on his head like quills upon the fretful porcupine—six shrouds met his gaze. It appears that an undertakers' supply salesman lost his sample case. Kent's friends tell him that each shroud is a sign that he will put to sleep every man he tackles from now on. The fighting woodchopper from Triniti says he will try to hang it on 'em.

BIDS ON BRIDGE TO BE IN OCTOBER 13

Bids for the construction of the remaining bridge across the Harry Weise ranch in the Valley of the Moon will be opened October 13th, Supervisor Fred Lowell states.

The bridge will be completed by December 1st, at which time the entire highway will be finished from Schellville to Santa Rosa. It is one of the most important highways in this section of the state.

Official Body Inspects State Roads and Learn Needs for Paving Completion Here

The Committee of Nine appointed by Governor Richardson to inspect the state highways of California, to consult with Boards of Supervisors of the various counties and then make recommendations as to a future highway program throughout the state to the next legislature, visited Sonoma Valley Tuesday while enroute from Napa to Santa Rosa. The committee ordinarily stops only at the county seats, so the visit of the gentlemen to Sonoma was greatly appreciated. An impromptu reception was arranged as soon as word was received that the courtesy Sonoma would extend to the distinguished visitors would be acceptable.

Leaving Napa at 2:30 o'clock, after a cordial meeting with the Board of Supervisors of that city the committee members arrived at Schellville and were there met by local good roads boosters who escorted them to Sonoma. On the Plaza a reception committee of the Sonoma Valley Woman's Club, Mesdames Burlingame, Hotz, Luchsinger, Golton, Clewe and Murphy, awaited the guests and after greeting Secretary W. F. Mixon and his party, delicious fruit punch and wafers were served.

The visitors then inspected the Bear Flag monument, the Sonoma Mission and other points of interest, meanwhile hearing from the local committee the needs of Sonoma Valley for completed highways and the endorsement of Napa's recommendation that the Black Point cut-off be paved from Fairville to the Napa county line.

The supervisors of Napa county recommended in addition to the Black Point paving the taking over by the state of the Napa county paving between the "Y" in Napa county and the City of Vallejo; also the completion of a paved scenic highway from Calistoga over Mt. St. Helena to Lower Lake. Supervisors Thomas Maxwell and Mark Hein spoke for the Napa Board of Supervisors.

After a pleasant hour in Sonoma the committee, expressing itself as well pleased with the courtesy of our city, resumed its journey to Santa Rosa where a dinner and meeting with the Sonoma county Board of Supervisors was scheduled. Santa Rosa made it plain that this county seeks only its just proportion of the state's future highway expenditure. The Santa Rosa special requests were for the paving of the Black Point cut-off, the complete paving of the Schellville-Santa Rosa road, the completion of the Redwood Highway from the southern end of Sonoma county to Healdsburg and Cloverdale. Request was also made for coast highway aid to which Marin, Sonoma and Mendocino counties are expending more than $665,000, for a new highway from Rumsay to Calistoga via Petrified Forest and Mark West Springs.

The board went on record as proposing a two cent increase in the gasoline tax to defray the cost of the contemplated improvements. Under the existing tax of two cents the state receives half of the funds and the other half reverts to the counties.

Secretary W. F. Mixon of the committee told the members that 90 per cent of the county Boards of Supervisors of the state have recommended to the committee that an additional cent be added to the gasoline tax and that the extra cent be placed in the state road building fund to continue the road building program. Under this agreement the highway commission would receive two cents and the counties one cent of the proposed tax.

Supervisor Blair Hart was of the opinion that Sonoma county should receive its half share no matter what the tax and to back his assertions made the proposal that the tax be made four cents, thereby giving the state the two cents it seeks and at the same time giving the counties of the state their falf portion.

If the board, however, desires to reconsider its action and falls in line with the 90 per cent majority they were told that the board could for-

Indian Follows Father To Happy Hunting Grounds

Ben Sear, son of old Sear, the Indian who went to sleep on the railroad track near Caliente July 4th and was killed by the train, has followed his father to the happy hunting ground. The son, a resident of Sebastopol, was killed in an automobile accident on Tuesday of this week. A Santa Rosa dispatch says:

"Crushed to death beneath his car, supposedly at about 7:30 o'clock on Tuesday evening when his machine turned turtle on a curve in the road, the dead body of Ben Sear, Sebastopol Indian, was found early Wednesday morning on Magngolia Drive, south of Healdsburg, by S. T. Grove of Santa Rosa.

"Grove had passed the place Tuesday night with a young lady and at the time thought he saw a wrecked machine at the sode of the road, just over a slight embankment. The young lady, however, declared she thought it was only a pile of lug boxes, and Grove drove on.

"Wednesday morning, however, at about 5:45 when he returned, he saw the wrecked machine and the feet of the victim sticking from under the wreck.

"The head and shoulders of the dead man were crushed and pinned down beneath the back of the front seat and the ground. He had been dead for some hours.

"A punctured tire is believed to have caused the machine to skid as the turn was rounded, throwing it over the embankment.

"Sear was last seen alive at 7:30 Tuesday night when he stopped to purchase some cigarettes at a small store near the Healdsburg bridge. He was alone at the time. It is believed the accident occurred shortly after he left the store."

Captain Made Sonoma Port Of Call Again

Captain John Ploog, of Oakland, who used to sail up Sonoma Creek to the Embarcadero 40 years ago, visited the old landing and Sonoma Valley scenes last Sunday for the first time since he made the trip with the Three Sisters years ago. Ploog fondly recalled all the old families of the Embarcadero, including Captain Green, Captain Stofen, Judge Akers, the Donahues, Goodmans, Steadmans, Lubecks, Jack Wilson, Kennedys and others. He was surprised at the changes in Sonoma City and wanted to know where Pauli's general merchandise store was. Captain Ploog and wife accompanied Mr. and Mrs. Walter Johnson of Alameda on their visit here. Johnson, formerly connected with the Index-Tribune, but now of the Post-Enquirer, Oakland, has long promised the old seafaring man that he would drive him up to Sonoma in his car. The entire party enjoyed the day exceedingly.

FRIENDLY SIGNAL CAUSES AUTO WRECK

Last Saturday afternoon a Ford touring car driven by J. H. Coops collided with an Overland car driven by Mrs. Leona Batto on Broadway with the result that both cars were more or less damaged and Mrs. Groskopf, mother of Mrs. Batto, painfully though not seriously injured.

The accident appears to have been caused by the fact that Mrs. Batto waved a friendly salutation with her hand to Broadway friends, the friendly high-sign being mistaken for a signal by Mr. Coops, who believed the driver was about to turn the corner at Chase avenue. He promptly pulled to the left to give the lady driver plenty of room to make the turn and as a result the oncoming car was struck by the Coops machine with sharp impact. Fortunately, all escaped serious injury but Mrs. Groskopf, who received a painful cut on the nose, and Mr. Coops, who badly bruised his knee. The Batto car was badly damaged and was taken to the Bear Flag Garage.

Both parties to the accident held each other blameless.

FLAMES DAMAGE SHOCKEN HOUSE ON SPAIN STREET

Cottage Occupied by Dan Kennell In Flames Saturday Night; Firemen Put Out Blaze.

A freshly filled coal oil stove in the Dan Kennell home on Spain street exploded Saturday night and the flaming oil soon enveloped the interior of the cottage in flames. Dan Kennell, Jr., who recently moved into the home with his bride, the former Miss Flora Benedetto of Boyes Springs, was taking a bath at the time and leaping from the bath tub he threw on a coat and rushed to the street, giving the alarm.

The fire siren was sounded and the Sonoma Fire Department was almost instantly at the scene of the conflagration with the fire engine. Although the flames were leaping out of the rear windows when the fire laddies arrived, the streams of water were thrown on the house, the interior well drenched and the fire effectively controlled.

The house, owned by S. Shocken, is situated in the old Mission block and is one of three frame dwelling houses adjacent to the historic church. The proximity of the fire to the landmark caused considerable of a scare for a time and many people doing their Saturday night shopping rushed to the scene of the fire when the siren sounded.

ASKS ADOPTION OF HIGHWAY RESOLUTIONS

The secretary of the Valley of the Moon Chamber of Commerce, Albert Elliot, is in receipt of the resolutions passed by the Down Town Association and other San Francisco organizations which Sonoma is asked to endorse jointly and forward to the Committee of Nine. A meeting of the Sonoma organization has been called for Monday night at Fetters Springs, when the matter will be up for discussion.

At a recent meeting here the San Francisco road boosters gathered and outlined their plan of jointly presenting the claims of neighboring counties for certain improvements. The slogan, one for all and all for one was stressed. The accompanying resolutions are said to meet with the approval of local road boosters, but the inclusion of recommendations for the complete paving of the Schellville Santa Rosa road will be asked of the San Francisco organizations. This latter improvement was discussed at the meeting with the Down Town Association, but has evidently been overlooked.

The Sonoma Valley Improvement Club is planning a big dance to celebrate the highway opening at the Springs. The dance will be given on Saturday evening, October 25th. Among the attractions will be a $5.00 gold piece as door prize, box lunch and free coffee.

The big time will be at Fetters pavilion and moving pictures will be shown before the dancing begins. See their ad.

EL VERANO NEWS

By ARCHIBALD McKIVER

The celebration by the Mexican rail crew of the driving of the last spike in the new S. P. double track to Boyes Springs started last Saturday evening, and the natives of our neighboring republic, in their inimitable style, put on something worth while and did their stuff well. Mexican beans cooked to the queen's taste, barbecued meat done to a turn, songs, dances including the tango and hula-hula, and war cries that would raise the dead from their graves were some of the features of the celebration which put El Verano on the map as a railroad center. Many of the natives, awakened from their slumbers Sunday night, thought the Ku Klux Klan had invaded our city and were holding an initiation as they viewed in the moonlight the tribe dancing around the fire and paying tribute to dear old Mexico. On Monday two of the celebrants continued the celebration until noon, when, in front of the S. P. depot, a fight started, in which a crack on the head with a bottle of wine started the red gore flowing. At the sight of blood, like bulls, several of the gang took a hand and for some time it looked like a Mexican revolution was on. Some good blows were landed and the free-for-all was enjoyed by local townsmen. The new rails were well christened with the juice of the grape that has made the Valley of the Moon famous the world over, and not since the beginning of this great railroad company has the last spike driven been celebrated in such a manner and with such pomp and magnificence. Deputy Sheriff Joe Ryan arrived later but as the principals of the battle had hit the hay and were quiet—sleeping it off—no arrests were made. The breezy gang has left for Sacramento and once more our quiet village is normal, much to the delight of the peaceful citizens of El Verano.

The procession of cars carrying the political card of "Fighting Bob" La Follette, driving through this town and along the highways, has attracted the attention of the writer. Most of the automobiles carrying the La Follette banner are Fords, and Ford is a leading Republican. The old man seems to have the country stirred up, and he has even got Jimmie Phelan, who tried to put McAdoo over in New York City, hurling sarcastic remarks. But old Democrats know Jimmie too well to pay any attention to his moans. If Phelan and his man McAdoo and Billy Bryan had stayed away from the Democratic convention and let the party nominate the foremost man, Governor Al Smith of New York, there would not have been a third party. But they muddled things up so that followers of Democracy are disgusted with the party and its has-been politicians and will strongly support the LaFollette ticket.

John Vincent, El Verano butcher, has accepted the position as manager of Tom McMann's meat market at Boyes Springs. Vincent is a veteran meat man and knows his stuff.

Registration for the general election in November will close October 4th. Men and women who have not registered this year must do so on or before October 4th. The official registering clerks are Tom Mullen, El Verano; Jas. Baines, Boyes Springs; and the old reliable himself, George Breitenbach, at Sonoma. Every eligible voter should not fail to get on the great register as the three cornered presidential election in November is the big noise. This will be the last week, so don't fail to register.

Fred Brach and Louis Manry were in Santa Rosa Monday, being called as prospective jurors.

Mrs. O'Shaughnessy and daughter, Miss Nellie, of San Francisco, are spending several days at the El Verano Villa.

William Kent, the fighting wood-chopper, who hits an opponent as hard as he strikes a block of wood, was in town Saturday, carrying the honors of his recent win at Petaluma with class and dignity. Kent is in the best of shape, rounding into condition in the eastern foothills near Hooker's Falls, where the balmy air and high altitude puts him in shape to fear no man. The high hill boxer tells the writer that his ambition is to take on all comers—any man of his weight will be acceptable—and that he can go the route from one to 20 rounds at a fast clip. Harry Fine, his local manager, sees big things in the near future, and expects in time to have the mountaineer leather pusher as famous as Tommie Gibbons and other ring men of that weight.

J. Damon of San Francisco was visiting his old friend, Joe Hayman, on Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Al Bartow are on a two weeks' visit to the southern part of the state. Bill Thayer is looking after the poultry ranch during their absence.

Thursday evening at the El Verano Grammar School the Parent-Teachers' Association held a reception in honor of the new school teachers, the Misses Thoel, O'Farrell and Coleman. A pleasant evening was spent and a large number of the parents were on hand to give the popular instructors a hearty welcome to our city. The new teachers are well pleased with the school and the hospitality of El Verano residents.

William and P. Wyatt and Charles Danieli of San Francisco were spending in Sonoma Valley visiting folks and meeting the natives of El Verano.

Mr. and Mrs. E. Jensen and Mrs. Schwab of San Francisco were entertained a tthe Jensen home Sunday.

Mr and Mrs. Al Rossi and daughter of Occidental were Sunday visitors at the Rossi home. Al is a brakeman on the N. W. P. in that city.

Hugh Chance and wife of Sacramento stopped over to visit relatives last Saturday after a camping motor rip to Mendocino county. Chance, formerly a native of El Verano, now resides in the capital city and is a painting contractor.

Miss Doris Nonella, charming San Francisco young lady, was the guest of relatives here Sunday.

Mrs. A. Swensson was visiting and shopping in San Francisco the first of the week.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter T. Moore and daughter, Phillys, from Marysville, and Mrs. Moore's sister, Mrs. E. McKenney and daughter, Frances, of Berkeley, were here on a visit at the Mrs. M. Watt home in El Verano. Miss Edna Trainor of San Francisco is also a guest at the Watt home.

M. Wyatt, an employee of the Santa Rosa Gas Company, was a Sunday evening passenger for that city.

Bill Caufield, Petaluma stockman, was in town Monday on business and looking over cattle on the O'Brien ranges in the western foothills.

William Minkel is building a garage on the property of his son-in-law, A. B. Johnstone, in South El Verano. Later, a home will be built so that the Johnstones may spend their vacations here. They reside in San Francisco.

Assistant Passenger Agent Springer of the S. P. Company, Santa Rosa, was transacting business in El Verano last Friday.

Louis DeBar, foreman of the Scott-Maynard Lumber Company of San Francisco, was in town over the week end, renewing acquaintances.

Mrs. M. Cassidy and daughter of San Francisco were here spending the week end at their summer cittage.

George Colgan, veteran S. P. Santa Rosa baggage man celebrated his 55th birthday Sunday. Mr. Colgan has been on the Santa Rosa-Vallejo run for 35 years and looks as young as when we knew his 20 years ago. A birthday dinner was enjoyed at the Colgan home in Santa Rosa. Sunday was also the first anniversary of the marriage of his son, Wesley, who, with his wife, were there from Benecia to enjoy the festivities.

Our local hunters, preparing for the opening of the duck season on October 1st, are getting out their old shotguns and shining 'em up, and also getting their hunting dogs ready for the big opening day. It is said the birds are plentiful on the Schellville and Napa marshes and there is no doubt that the limit will be bagged

The El Verano Villa dances for the winter months are a big success, local and outside dancers attending in large numbers. The famous Delaney orchestra arrives every Saturday evening from San Francisco to furnish jazz music and each week the attendance grows larger.

Deputy Sheriff Bob Dickson of Sant aRosa and Deputy Sheriff Joe Ryan of Sonoma were in El Verano on official business last Friday.

Mrs. William Little, daughter of the Beachs, Sonoma Vista, is up from San Francisco to spend a week visiting the home folks.

The Henry Lordeaux family of Verano has moved to Sonoma and will occupy one of the Sebastiani cottages. Mr. Lordeaux will be in San Francisco during the winter months, returning home over the week ends.

Mr. Blackman and family, formerly of Boyes Springs, have leased the Nonella home and taken up their residence here.

William Sutter, a guard at the San Quentin prison, was a guest of his mother over the week end.

COMMITTEE OF NINE VIEWS SONOMA HIGHWAY

The Committee of Nine viewed the Sonoma Valley highway and Black Point Cut-off Tuesday of this week and we believe the modest request for State aid to complete this splendid artery of travel was recognized by the gentlemen who came here.

It must have been obvious to them that the present unfinished road, dubbed by this newspaper a patchwork pattern, since it is unpaved from Fairville to the Napa County line, unpaved from Schellville to a point below Sonoma, paved a short stretch to connect with the City of Sonoma's pavement and paved to Agua Caliente, after which it is dirt road to Beltane—a highway yet unfinished isworthy and entitled to the money necessary to complete it.. The foundation of as fine a piece of highway as California boasts is little short of the mark and traverses as pretty and historic territory as any in our Golden State. The majestic view of the Napa and Sonoma Valleys as the highway investigators reached Sears Point must have inspired the Committee, even as it did the padres of old when they came upon this scene as they wended their way over the hills in 1823 to establish in Sonoma the last Mission on the King's Highway. For 100 years Sonoma Valley has nestled in comparative obscurity due to poor roads and lack of transportation. Today with the State highway open and motor travel increasing by leaps and bounds the Schellville-Santa Rosa road is revealing to travelers the recreation and health wonders of the West. In close proximity to San Francisco, in truth a suburb, this artery of travel will afford the people of the bay section one of the finest, close-by, all year round trips to be found anywhere. It also gives Sonoma access to the county seat, Santa Rosa; it gives Napa and Sacramento a short route to the redwood forests and it is all but complete.

The Committee of Nine knows with what patience the people of Sonoma Valley have awaited the building of this road; how shortage of funds from previous bond issues disappointed their fondest hopes; how they now hope for the 100 per cent completion of the splendid work in progress and earnestly request the favorable recommendation of the gentlemen of the investigating body that the Valley of the Moon may invite the world to its famed confines and let travelers view the old Mission town, Sonoma, and the country of Jack London, as modern travelers care only to view famed places via paved roads.

LaFOLLETTE IS RUSSIA'S CANDIDATE

As Senator Phelan points out, it is a palling that a man like LaFollette, wh was almost expelled from the United States Senate for his disloyal attitude during the war, should now be a candidate for President of the United States. There is no question but that LaFollette is being run by ardent dissentionists. Just why they are enemies and would plunge the country into a chaos like that of Germany or Russia is hard to fathom. The United States is not perfect. It has blundered on some big and vital questions, but withal it is the best country on earth, as every critic, however, vituperative, must admit in his own conscience. Why, then, set in motion or give authority to revolutionary elements which would disrupt not only our own democracy but would be the undoing of other countries, war-wracked or Sovietized to the point of disintegration and only held together now by the stability of America and its able program of world reconstruction.

Mr. LaFollette, third party candidate for the presidency, is the favored candidate of Bolshevism. The Bolsheviki of Russia regard him as the entering wedge of the nefarious plot which is financed in that country and would nationalize us. And what of this Soviet system? According to first-hand information from Russia it is a miserable semblance of government which benefits the few and is class government of the worst sort. The farmers of Russia are taxed to death to maintain the international army and to finance propaganda throughout the world. They can sell their wheat only to the Soviet government at a price set by the government, which in turn traffics in it and makes millions for the "cause." Part of the propaganda fund is being spent in America right now to elect La Follette. Voters who thoughtlessly are aiding the candidacy of this instrument of radicalism should inform themselves. Republicans who do not favor the party candidate, Calvin Coolidge, because of his attitude on the bonus, the pension issue, or some such question, will not vote for La Follette if they think anything of their Americanism at all. Better vote for the Democrat, the outright Socialist or any of the candidates than to aid and abet the plot to get the tenacles of Bolshevism fastened on this country through the insidious machinations of disgruntled politicians and the man they have picked for their leader.

HUMBOLDT SAYS MEASURE NO. 11 IS HUMBUG

The people of Humboldt County are strongly denouncing Initiative Measure No. 11, which will appear on the ballot in November, and is sponsored by the State Fish and Game Commission.

The ostensible purpose of the measure is to protect fish, but in reality the measure, if carried would forever prevent the development of power on the Klamath River from the mouth of the Shasta River to the sea. The potential wealth in this section of the Klamath is estimated as more than the Muscle Shoals project. Had the power in this dry year been developed from the waters of the Klamath it would have meant millions to California. The fish can be protected regardless of the power which may ultimately be developed, declare the Humboldt County people, and as a matter of fact, are already protected through federal laws.

The Eureka Chamber of Commerce is fighting the Fish and Game Commission and have bared the fact that a club of exclusive sportsmen would strangle a great source of future wealth in Northern California by seeking to enact a law in the name of the poor fish.

TURNS DOWN FARMERS OF CALIFORNIA

In recalling what the Fordney-McCumber Republican prosperity tariff has done for California it is interesting to turn back the pages of Congressional history and see what LaFollette, who now seeks the support of the electors of this State as the candidate of the Socialists, did to relieve the business and agricultural interests of California.

In every instance LaFollette obstructed these protection measures either by voting "no" or failing to vote at all.

Sugar, for instance, affects the employment of a vast number of wage earners in California; it produces $8,500,000 annually in wages in the State; it represents a total investment of $60,000,000 in this State and an annual output of $92,400,000. To protect the sugar business of California and other sugar producing states, the Republican administration adopted a protective tariff of 2.2 cents a pound.

LaFollette on seven roll calls refused to raise his hand to back this movement, failing to vote on any one of these calls.

At another time, however, during the 67th Congress, LaFollette voted "yes" on an amendment to lower the tariff on Cuban sugar from 1.4 cents to .71 cents following a prolonged discussion that demonstrated the destructiveness of such reduction to our own sugar beet industry.

The Democrats nearly extinguished California's poultry business which annually has an output of $50,000,000 by placing eggs on the free list and flooding the American markets with cheap Chinese eggs. The Republicans came to the rescue of this industry by adopting a tariff of 8 cents a dozen on imported eggs.

The poultry men of California like the other agricultural groups in this State got no support from LaFollette when the Fordney-McCumber bill came to a vote.

And so all the way through the list of California's major industries which the Republican administration sought to protect by tariff, LaFollette showed this same attitude favoring foreign labor and foreign products.

The only exception to this, however, is noted in LaFollette's attitude towards the products of his own State. He consistently voted for the highest rate proposed on all agricultural and dairy products produced by Wisconsin and voted against any tariff on products not produced in his own State.

He voted against a tariff on olive oil because Wisconsin does not grow olives, but voted for the highest rate proposed on linseed and flaxseed oils because Wisconsin produces the raw materials from which these oils are made.

He voted against a tariff on citrus fruits, almonds, and walnuts grown in California but advocated a high duty on honey because honey is produced in his State. California's rice men received no support from LaFollette in their efforts o secure protection from foreign rice. The answer of LaFollette to their pleading was "no" but he did vote for a tariff on metal hooks and eyes and pants buttons because some of his strongest constituents are engaged in the manufacture of these articles.

And so it was down the entire category of business—manganese, citrate of lime, yellow chrome, quicksilver, marble, crude magnesite, coal tar, cement, bricks, shingles, fish, peanuts, beans, cotton, wool, hides tomatoes, copper and citrus fruits. LaFollette either voted "no" or refrained from voting. When the tariff bill came up for final passage LaFollette ran true to form by failing to vote.

Then as a climax of this devotion on the part of LaFollette in behalf of California's welfare it is interesting to note that in the culmination of California's years of struggle to keep that State white, when the Japanese exclusion measure so overwhelmingly supported by loyal Californians came up for vote, LaFollette failed to vote.

BAD MISHAP ON HOPLAND GRADE

A three-year-old child was badly cut by flying glass and two machines were wrecked on the Hopland grade the first of the week when a car, driven by Maurice Levy, San Francisco fruit buyer, crashed into a large sedan driven by Theodore Schur of Potter Valley.

The child is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Schur and was asleep on the rear seat of the sedan. The impact broke the rear window out of the sedan, the glass falling upon the sleeping child. Passersby rushed the little one to Ukiah to a hospital where several stitches were taken to close a number of deep cuts.

The Levy car was coming south and the Schur car was returning north at the time of the accident.

RECEPTION TO M. E. PASTOR ON TUESDAY

In honor of Rev. S. E. Crowe, who was renamed pastor of the M. E. church of Sonoma recently at the state conference, a reception was tendered the popular pastor and his good wife at the church parlors Tuesday evening.

Prior to assembling at the church each one who attended the reception called at the parsonage and left a pound donation as a surprise gift. As a result of this unique and generous feature, a goodly collection of useful and necessary contributions greeted Mr. and Mrs. Crowe upon their return home after the evening's festivities at the church.

John Dunbar was master of ceremonies and Rev. Isaac Cookman made the address of welcome at the church parlors, after which there was an informal social time, culminating in the enjoyment of delicious ice cream and cake.

PRAISE IMPROVEMENT OF SONOMA CHURCH

A social affair was held in the Congregational church on Friday evening of last week when about 150 met to express their appreciation of the completion of the new addition to the Sunday school rooms, the taking out of partitions and re-arrangement of the downstairs rooms. This improvement was necessary on account of the increased attendance of the Sunday school, which this church believes should have first attention.

The meeting was informal, although a short program was given, in which prayer was offered by Rev. Crowe of the M. E. church, after which the superintendent, Mr. Edrington, gave a brief report of how the work was started, and carried through. Mr. McAllister told of the cost of the work —$2500 in round figures—and thanked the people for their generous help, as the church could not have done the work alone. Dr. W. J. Minchin, conference superintendent for the Congregational churches of Northern California, was introduced to the audience and gave a brief report of the work, and churches in the state. After this refreshments were served and splendid music furnished by Lyle F. Campbell, Cecil Hunter and George Angove . The meeting was brought to a close at 11 p. m., and all expressed themselves well satisfied with the way their money had been spent.

The building committee, of which F. M. Edrington is chairman, wishes to express its sincere appreciation to those who could not attend the meeting, of their generous help and good wishes.

HERMAN SONS PICNIC WAS ENJOYABLE EVENT

The picnic given by the local lodge of Herman Sons at Schuhmanns Gardens last Sunday to celebrate the vintage season was well attended and all who wathered at the Buena Vista grounds had a joyous time. The games conducted by Mrs. Engish, Mrs. Abele and others proved very popular while the dance platform attracted many others who praised the good jazz orchestra and its excellent time. Otto Rotermundt was door keeper and Mrs. Rotermundt conducted the refreshment stand.

The committee and officers of the Lodge accorded everyone a hospitable time and a neat sum was netted for the treasury. The Lodge was recently organized in Sonoma Valley but already has a good membership.

Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Simmons have returned from a two weeks outing spent at Requa, on the Klamath river where the river enters the ocean. They had the finest kind of fishing and caught salmon weighing from 11 to 25 pounds. Fishing was from a row boat anchored at a point where the tide afforded the best fishing. Mr. Simmons brought home a number of his big catch. The trip was made in the Simmons new Buick and splendid road was encountered until the travelers reached Arcata from where the road is narrow and highway and bridges under construction.

of all interested parties. We can save a lot of money if it proves successful, says Mr. Dobbel

Trustee Valente viewed the Santa Rosa farm and says that so far the plan has been a decided success. "It works fine, and it will pay us to try it" declares the new member of the Board. "We will probably have to take about $1000 out of the general fund to build a second tank and make the improvements but the dark tank Sonoma already has ot its sewer farm is superior to that of Santa Rosa, so I believe we can be successful if we will follow the ideas as gleaned from our visit Sunday."

Messrs Bulotti and Bates are also in favor of the improvements which it is said will be put in very soon and are expected to satisfy all complainants of present conditions, including the State Board of Health.

Mrs. Beth Winston (Trudgen) has been granted a divorce on the grounds of cruelty from Ralph Winston, $60 per month alimony and the custody of the two children. The Winstons reside in Richmond.

PROFESSOR PAINTER WINS IN OBERG CASE

At 3:30 o'clock Saturday afternoon the Board of Education, Petaluma, after several hours' deliberation, rendered its decision declaring Professor D. L. Oberg, principal of the Petaluma Junior High School, guilty of the charge of unprofessional conduct.

The specific charges on which he was found guilty was unjust criticism of Superintendent of Schools B. H. Painter and other teachers of the high school.

The above formal announcement was made by the Board of Education whose decision was awaitedwith unusual interest in Petaluma where the action ended the school trouble which for the past several months has created much interest.

Painter was formerly principal of the high school in Sonoma before going to Petaluma.

The Caliente Park Fire Department had a drill on Friday of last week and wound up the practice with a feed. Batallion Chief Peterson complimented his men on their good work and appetites.

High School News

(By KENNETH CORMAN)

Certainly there's something wrong somewhere. How is it that the Freshman girls have organized a club? Well, "the quicker the sooner." They have to learn to be big people some day.

Student body cards? You betcha! Everybody (most everybody) brought four bits Wednesday because the class that sold the highest percentage of its students by 1 o'clock Wednesday had the exclusive right to the auditorium for dancing Friday noon.

The block system is turning out wonderfully for most students, as they find it a tremendous advantage to have a whole week in which to do a lesson.

The orchestra is boasting a couple of added saxophones this year, and the new cats, panthers and blue jays contained in the aforementioned machines (or instruments) do aid in producing pleasing sounds. The orchestra has also suffered the loss of several perfect first violins, a clarinet and a saxophone.

At one of the recent student assemblies Miss Olsen, the new domestic science teacher, gave her audience a wonderful talk on the art of studying. She also stated that she was producing some perfect cooks and housewives. A number of the boys stirred in their seats. "If any of you fellows want good references, just come to me," she said. A few of the masculine members of the audience blushed, the rest laughed, and that was all.

Mr. Benton, the new teacher of mechanics, has proven an excellent teacher and a jovial friend of all his students.

But it's tough on the fellow who never does care to work.

INSTITUTIONS GETTING SPLENDID STATE AID

The 1925 legislature will be asked to appropriate funds for new buildings at Pacific Colony, State Moron Home near Los Angeles, and the doors of this institution will be thrown open again during the coming biennium, it was definitely announced last Saturday by H. Robert Braden, State Board of Control member, and Governor Richardson's budget maker.

While he did not state how much money he will include in the budget for various state hospitals, Braden announced as follows, the construction work either suggested or in progress at the institutions:

Mendocino State Hospital—Two cottages to cost $150,000 are being built. Repair of present buildings and construction of a receiving hospital suggested.

Stockton State Hospital—$160,000 receiving hospital just completed. Work in progress on $60,000 cottage at hospital farm.

Southern California State Hospital (Patton)—Four cottages finishes at cost of $120,000. Reconstruction of main building at $150,000 cost in progress.

Sonoma State Home—Two cottages being built at an expenditure of $150,000. Assembly hall and school building just finished. New receiving hospital sought.

Norwalk State Hospital—Two cottages being built; receiving hospital proposed.

Pacific Colony (Ponoma)—$140,000 available for construction of two cottages. Legislature to be asked for funds to build two more cottages, administration building, heating plant and possibly receiving hospital.

State School for Girls (Ventura)—Two cottages built at cost of $30,000.

CARD OF THANKS

I wish to express my grateful appreciation for all the kindness, words of sympathy and beautiful flowers during my recent bereavement.

Mark Twain's Reason for Not Asking Loan

Dr. Clarence C. Rice of New York, who introduced Mark Twain to H. H. Rogers in 1894, when the fortunes of the writer had failed, and thus got the American humorist back on his feet financially, has told of his experiences with Mark Twain as a patient, says a writer in the Mentor.

According to Doctor Rice, Mark Twain was never seriously ill till the final illness. Doctor Rice writes: "Mark Twain was never ill—just colds. I would take his temperature occasionally, but he generally insisted that is was only a bluff and that the thermometer was put in his mouth to keep him from talking. He told me that old yarn of the patient who obtained a prescription from his physician and, after looking at the paper, asked how much the medicine would cost. When the doctor told him that it would cost about $2 the patient requested the physician to loan him the $2. The indignant doctor finally said: 'Here are the $2; give me the prescription. I want to make an alteration. I'm scratching out the nerve tonic; you won't need that.' Mark Twain observed: 'I have always admired that man. That was a noble piece of graft. I have thought of trying the game on you, but I've never seen the time when I thought you had the $2.'"

Son Took the Wind Out of Dad's Sails

A shrewd old Yankee who had accumulated a fortune by strict economy, noticed his son had spent carfare to go a few blocks and deemed the expense a foolish one. That evening after dinner he called his son into the library, saying he wished to speak with him. "But first," he said, "I will turn down the light; we can talk just as well in the dark and it will save gas." As he went on explaining the value of economy he heard a fumbling and shuffling from the direction of his son's chair. Stopping his lecture he inquired: "Sam, what are you doing?"

"Father," came from the darkness. "I can hear just as well without 'em, so while we are sitting here in the dark I'm taking off my trousers to save 'em."

For the rest of the evening economics were not discussed.—Boston Transcript.

Doll's House for Czar

When a young man of twenty-four, Peter the Great of Russia went to Holland. He was working at different jobs so as to be better fitted to become ruler of Russia. In Utrecht he saw a miniature doll's house, furnished down to the minutest detail. In the library were paintings two inches square. Cabinets were filled with thumb-high porcelains from Japan. Special carpets were manufactured for this house, and the linen was woven in Flanders.

Peter the Great took a great fancy to this tiny palace and offered any price for one like it. The builder, a retired merchant, would not accept money for his handiwork, but offered to make one as a gift to the young czar. The liliputian mansion, completed after 25 years of labor, is now in the royal museum, Amsterdam, says Mentor Magazine.

Got Her Clock Back

In "My Garden of Memory," Mrs. Kate Douglas Wiggin, the famous authoress, tells a story of the time when she was the guest of some friends, and was kept from sleeping by the ticking of a clock in her bedroom. Finally, she had to place the clock among some blankets in a drawer. Leaving early next morning, she forgot to tell the maid about the clock, writes Puck in London Tit-Bits.

Three months afterward, in Germany she remembered it. She would have cabled, but it seemed bizarre to say, after an interval of many months: "Clock buried in guest room between blankets in bottom drawer. Impossible to sleep with it! Forgive!"

Instead, she wrote, and by reply came word from her former hostess that her new chambermaid had searched for and recovered the clock.

Moslem Fast of Ramazan

In the Moslem world Passion Sunday corresponds with the first day of the month-long fast of Ramazan. During Ramazan, western customs, where they have been adopted, are set aside, and the more primitive native manners revived. The muezzin supplements his usual announcement of the hour of prayer with the exhortation: "Give food, O ye faithful, unto the orphan and the poor, the wayfarer and the bondman," and though the wealthy do not now, as in former days, stand at their doors and invite the needy to a well-laden table, Ramazan remains a time of peace, charity and hospitality.

Compound Interest

We often hear that Peter Minuet in 1626 paid the Indians only $24 for Manhattan island. We are apt to think of this as a ridiculously small sum for what is today the most valuable piece of land of its size in the world; but we do not stop to think that if this original $24 had been invested by Peter Minuet at the rate of 7 per cent per annum and compounded every six months to date, it would have earned a sum equivalent to the assessed value of the entire city of New York, so it is said, including its streets, sewers, railways, subways, theaters, hotels, skyscrapers and palatial homes.—Thrift Magazine.

TUBBS ISLAND CLUB HOUSE COMPLETED

The new $6000 club home of the Field and Tule Club in the marches near Tubbs Island has been completed.

The new structure will provide accommodations for 14 men overnight and also has all modern conveniences.

A huge fire place in one end of a smoking room of extensive dimensions is a feature of the building. There are also shower baths.

Mrs. J. Hockwarter of Buena Vista after a three weeks' vacation at the Hockwarter farm, has returned to San Francisco where she has a splendid position with the Sunset Cafeteria, with the privilege of spending each week end with her family here.

Robley Harbot, after several months absence, has returned home from the Shriners' Hospital in San Francisco, where he underwent two operations on his limb. The latest surgery is said to have been most successful. Robley was a general favorite at the hospital and has grown considerably taller since he left Sonoma.

The famous case which grew out of someone hitting a yellow hound dog was called in Judge Lester Small's Sonoma court last week. After a thorough going into the fine points of the charges, the judge took the case under advisement for one week. The case has stirred El Verano's peaceful citizens and interest in it far excels the interest shown in the famous Leopold-Loeb case in Chicago, and as the eyes of all were turned to Judge Caverly awaiting his verdict, so they now rest on the Sonoma jurist. His verdict will determine the slander case in which the principals are Mrs. G. Huff, and Mr. and Mrs. Phil Rossi. The dog in the mix-up, which is considered as a great pet by its owner, belongs to A. Garavanta, store man of this town.

LABOR DAY DEVELOPMENTS

Celebration of Labor Day brought out some vital facts about our country that should inspire citizens with patriotism, optimism and confidence in our political institutions.

It has shown that we lead the entire world in production because the average citizen works nearer 300 days in the year than in any other country in the world.

The workers draw pay as in wages equal to more than one-half of the entire national income, and more than 60 per cent of that goes to those who get $2000 apiece or less per annum.

This of this, ye growlers for the overthrow: 13,000,000 Americans have $7,500,000,000 in the savings banks; they hold 72,000,000 insurance policies of all kinds, for $55,000,000,000. About half our population, more than 11,000,000 families, own their own homes and 3,500,000 farmers own two-thirds of the land in use.

Our country has more spread-out ownership than any other. Railroads are owned by 2,000,000 persons; electric light business is owned by 1,500,000; telephone and telegraph systems are owned by 500,000 Americans, hundreds of thousands of these being wage workers.

Stock ownership by employees in the company that employs them is an ordinary and expanding fact in every line of American business and political or municipal ownership is decreasing. How can you beat it, Mr. Political Theorist?

FERTILITY MAINTAINED THROUGH COVER CROPS

By HENRY P. EVERETT
Agricultural Extension Service

A leguminous cover crop weighing six tons (green weight) to the acre when plowed under will add to the soil as much nitrogen as an application of six pounds of nitrate of soda per tree. This is only one of the advantages derived from this practice. The decomposed organic matter becoming mixed with the soil will increase materially the moisture holding capacity of the soil which results in a greater retention of the annual rainfall for the use of the orchard. This addition of organic matter will also improve the mechanical condition of the soil, making it more friable, easier to handle and allow for better seration and bacterial action. Cover crops are not essential in the sense that an orchard will not exist unless cover crops are grown, but they are essential in that the general fertility and vigor of the soil is maintained in a way that cannot be accomplished through any other means known at the present time for the same expenditure of money and labor. The immediate results may not show up as definitely and as noticeably as other forms of direct fertilizing but through a period of years of maintained fertility through cover cropping, a general condition through out the orchard will result that will greatly repay the owner for the time and cost that has been expended.

The practice of growing cover crops in Sonoma county has continued over a long enough period so that general recommendations can be made which should help to insure successful results if these recommendations are carefully followed. The three important things on which a successful cover crop seem to depend are: First, the time of seeding; second, soil stimulus; third, covering seed.

Under dry farming conditions a cover crop has a comparatively short season in which to make its growth and that season is during the winter months which is not a natural time for a plant to do its growing. Therefore anything that can lengthen the season or stimulate a rapid growth during this period is essential to the production of a tonnage sufficient to justify the cover cropping practice. Sowing the seed in the fall before the first rain will give the longest growing period possible and will allow the seed to sprout and grow through the few remaining warm days of the fall. Thus a root system can be developed, helping the plants to withstand the cold weather during the winter, and if the rooting has gone far enough before winter sets in, considerable growth will be made even during the winter months. When the weather warms up in the spring the plants will be sufficiently developed to grow rapidly until the time for turning under arrives.

Experience in this county has shown very conclusively that in the average orchard it is necessary, particularly for the first two or three years, that in order to get a satisfactory growth of cover crops, an application of some fertilizer is needed as a stimulant. A ton and one-half to two tons of chicken manure to the acre is very satisfactory. If this material is not available about two to four hundred pounds of super-phosphate per acre should be applied as a special stimulant to the legume. Lime is another stimulant to legumes and is particularly advisable where the soil shows any amount of acidity or is of a heavy texture. Sulphur has shown very good results in the majority of cases where it has been used.

The depth of covering may appear as a detail to the majority of orchardists but the data compiled on thee subject shows very definitely that this is one of the important factors to be considered. Small seed such as Melilotus Indica and Burr Clover should be sown on the ground and not covered at all. This seed is too small to be bothered by birds and will be covered when the first rain falls. The seed will be left after the rain with a very slight covering allowing the sun to warm it up and start a growth very much sooner than if it is covered under half an inch to an inch of soil. Larger seed such as Vetch and Barley must be covered, but as lightly as possible.

Two varieties of cover crops have replaced everything else that has been tried out although there are still some promising varieties that may yet develop to be worth while in this district. The two mentioned are Melilotus Indica (or bitter clover) and common Oregon Vetch. Generally speaking the Vetch is recommended for the lighter soils of the Gold Ridge series around Sebastopol, while the Melilotus Indica should prove more satisfactory on the heavier types found elsewhere in the county. Melilotus Indica requires approximately 20 pounds of seed to the acre and Vetch 40 pounds. Many have found it advisable particularly during the first two or three years of growing Vetch to plant a nurse crop of Barley or Oats at the rate of 60 pounds of seed per acre. In later planting this will not be found necessary.

The soil in the average orchard at this time of the year does not need any cultivating or stirring up before the seed is planted. Unless there is considerable growth of weeds on the soil, no discing or other treatment is required before the seed is sown. A breast hand seeder will givee a more uniform result, particularly with the small seed such as Melilotus Indica or Burr Clover. The average breast seeder will sow a strip about 20 feet wide. The most satisfactory method to follow is to sow half the seed going down parallel rows, then sow the other half going down rows at right angles to the first. This will give a uniform seeding and will leave a small area around the trunk of the trees where cover crops do not naturally grow very well, and when they do there is difficulty in getting them turned under properly.

The points then to keep in mind when thinking of cover crops are the following:

1. The actual addition to the soil of plant foods and organic matter.
2. To sow before the first rain.
3. Do not cover the Melilotus Indica or Burr Clover and cover Vetch only lightly.
4. Stimulate the cover crop with an application of lime when needed, chicken manure or super-phosphate, or both.

If these recommendations are followed unless, of course, we have no early rains, or an exceptionally cold, unfavorable winter, there is no reason why a very satisfactory cover crop should not result. Keep in mind also that one should not become discouraged if the cover crop the first year is not 100 per cent perfect because successive plantings of the same legume should result in better and better yields.

Where land is, or can be, irrigated cover crops can be assured by irrigating immediately after the seed is sown. The best practice seems to be to furrow or check the land, sow the seed and then irrigate, leaving the land uncultivated as it is. This sets the seed in close contact with moist soil, gets it immediately germinated and by leaving the checks or furrows open makes it possible for an irrigation to be given next spring if necessary, before plowing.

HURLEY CASE IS SET FOR TRIAL

The case of the people vs. Phil Hurley of Petaluma appealed from the jury verdict in the Sonoma juctice court, by which Mr. Hurley was convicted of reckless driving near Sonoma, came up in the Superior Court on Friday of last week and was set for trial on October 3rd, in the Superior Court.

ACTIONS OF COLT SAVES MOTHER'S LIFE

A colt saved the life of its mother, who had fallen into a weel last week at the old Mitchell place on Stanley street, in Petaluma. The little animal cricled around the well, neighing piteously. Its actions attracted neighbors who investigated to find the mother in the well. They notified the owner, Dan McGovern, who secured Dickson Brothers' crew of men and with block and tackle and a derrick, they soon rescued the mare from the well, none the worse for the experience.—Petaluma Courier.

MARKETS

NEWS, COMMENT AND FIGURES

Chicago, Sept. 20.

The wheat market held within narrow limits, the past week, having a range of 3¼c to 3⅝, and the finish was at the bottom, with September ⅞c higher, December ⅛c lower and May ⅞c lower. The market was in a rut, with some new incentive needed to bring about a decided change in the price. Corn was weak and sharply lower, and at the last showed net losses of 5½c to 7¼c lower, while oats were 1⅜c@1⅞c lower. Rye showed independent strength, due to heavy export buying, and gained 3⅞@5¾c for the week. Lard declined 12½@27½c, with ribs 12½ lower and bellies 5@15c higher.

Bullish crop reports from abroad had little effect on wheat.

Germany was officially reported as short 48,000,000 bushels of wheat and rye as compared with last year, but the market has not been acting in accord with the foreign news or the persistent export demand for some days, and the undertone a good part of today was distinctly heavy. Toward the last there was liquidation by scattered longs and the finish was at the bottom, with September $1.27⅝ to $1.27½, December $1.31¾ to $1.31½ and May at $1.34⅝ to $1.37⅝.

San Francisco, Sept. 20.

HOGS: Compared week ago: Market steady, some concerns loaded, others buying medium 140@170-pound Californias, $10.50@11; medium weights, $10.25@10.50; good to choice 180@220-pound easterns, $11.25@11.50.

CATTLE: Compared week ago: Steady, especially on good steers over 1,100 pounds. Few good 1,050-pound Nevadas, $7.75; numerous loads medium 1,000-pound Nevada, $7.25; bulk short freight Californias, $7; undergrades liberal, whether from packers' ranches or on commission; good cows steady; few loads 1,000-pound Oregons, $5@5.25; bulk, $4.75@5; undergrades weak; no interest.

CALVES: For week: Receipts burdensome from Arizona, Nevada and California; bulk good range 210@225-pound at $7.50; others on commission; heavy 300@350 calves, $6@6.50; weak; some coolers loaded; dressed market off at close $1@3 per cwt. Supply in second hands plentiful.

SHEEP: For week, bulk shorn island lambs, 76@80-pound, $10.50@11; steady; 80@82-pound lambs, $10.25@$10.50; later kinds weak; cull lambs, 70@75-pound, $9; few loads 52-pound feeders, $8.50; good to choice 70@76 full wools, scarce; firm; quotable up to $11.75@12; good ewes, $4.50.

Arrivals of hay for the week, 658 tons, as compared with 1,242 tons of the previous week. Trading active with a strong feeling from the continued dry weather. Pasture through the state is reported to be only about 50 per cent of normal, compared with 83 per cent last year. This causes an impression that consumption will be greater than last season, while our crop yield of all kinds of tame hay is about 4,400,000 tons compared with 5,250,000 tons last year. This would normally indicate that hay prices should increase as the general demand increases through the season.

Interior trading has been quiet. Very little hay is left in the field and buying of warehouse stock has not yet commenced, as most consumers have purchased at the harvest prices and will use up their supplies before paying the increased charges.

Export and coast shipping have been unusually light. Nothing is going as yet to the Hawaiian islands, which are still quarantined and coast trade has been dull.

Mrs. Rose Bianchini has returned from the hospital in San Francisco and is now at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Felice Rovai, where she is making splendid progress toward recovery after a serious illness.

Mrs. Sophie Albertson, pioneer of Sonoma and wife of City Marshal J. F. Albertson, has been quite ill the past week.

Misses Marian and Marjorie Butler of San Francisco, nieces of Mrs. F. Edrington, and Messrs. Donald Waur and Jack Fisher, also of that city, were visitors here last Sunday.

Wilma Martinson has entered the Shriners' Hospital in San Francisco where eminent surgeons are very hopeful that her lameness can be greatly helped. Little Miss Martinson is a favorite here and many friends sincerely wish for her complete recovery.

William Rambo is now putting the finishing touches on hs new 22 passenger school bus, which is the last and best word in that line of service and a nice piece of work.

The Rev. Dr. Waltz and wife left Sunday afternoon for southern California to attend the Methodist Conference of ha secion. They will be gone two weeks.
